Titles and the Reckoning

The thirteen Imperial Titles, the twenty Minor Titles, the relics, and how the game is won

Kingdoms Call reference sheet. Data file v2026.10.15-1202. Generated 2026-10-19 from the repository (branch at that date). Numbers are what the engine uses today, read straight from its tables; where a figure comes from the rulebook text instead, the section says so.

The game ends at the Reckoning: a king who holds enough of the world's tax base claims the throne, and after two turns of grace the realm with the most Legacy wins. Legacy is scored on the thirteen Imperial Titles (20 for the Throne, 10 each for the rest) and one point per Legendary relic. Minor Titles are personal perks re-awarded each turn and count for nothing at the Reckoning.

What to look for when reviewing

- Eight Imperial Titles stand on a skill; five on deeds or holdings. Every creed competes on the same terms (R-002).
- The perk each Title gives while held (from turn 5), which is the main intelligence in the game.
- The Minor Title perks: small, personal, and several add +1 to a skill in one situation only.
- The Reckoning bar by realm count and the ally step.

Where this comes from

- Data file: TITLE_DEFS. Engine: titles/reckoning.js (MINOR_TITLES, SKILL_EXTRA_MINORS), titles/perks.js (TITLES_PUBLIC_FROM_TURN 5).
- Rulebook: How to Win: The Reckoning; Minor Titles. Rulings R-002, R-003, R-022, R-087, R-116.

The thirteen Imperial Titles

Title	Legacy	Held by	Awarded for	Perk while held (from turn 5)
The Throne	20	realm	Hold the largest tax base (total province tax income) in the world.	Each turn you are shown every rival realm's share of the world tax base.
The Vaultkeeper	10	realm	Hold the largest treasury (most gold) in the world.	Each turn you are shown every rival realm's treasury.
The Grand Marshal	10	character	Hold the highest Tactical skill, plus land-battle merit — winning (+1 per enemy unit destroyed) more than losing (−1 per own unit lost). Battles against a neutral province's chieftain and his guard count the same as a war with a rival realm.	Each turn you are told the province holding each rival's strongest land army.
The Sea Lord	10	character	Hold the highest Naval skill, plus sea-battle merit on the same terms as the Grand Marshal — battles with a neutral sea province's guardian count too.	Each turn you are told the province holding each rival's strongest fleet.
The Monster-Bane	10	character	Slay the greatest total HP of lair guardians (a pacified guardian counts half).	Each turn you are named the foremost monster-slayer of every rival realm, with their province and tally.
The Loremaster	10	character	Hold the highest Sage skill, plus one point per Sage discovery made.	Each turn you are shown every discovery each rival realm holds — and copy one you lack, for free.
The Archmage	10	character	Hold the most total magic-school levels (all five schools) plus legendary spell-casting items.	Each turn you are told the strongest mage of each magic school outside your own realm.
The Hierophant	10	character	Hold the highest White skill, plus Bless Province, Holy Symbol and Resurrect casts.	Each turn the dead give up their secrets: every fallen hero your realm can see is read out with the skills they carried in life.
The Deathpriest	10	character	Hold the highest Necromancy skill, plus every dark rite worked (each Curse, Plague, undead raised and other Necromancy spell cast).	Each turn, Grave-sight reveals every province whose battlefield graves hold crack or elite dead — and files each one under Graveyards Known in your report.

Title	Legacy	Held by	Awarded for	Perk while held (from turn 5)
The Spymaster	10	character	Hold the highest Spy skill, plus one point per successful act of espionage — spying out a province, reading a rival character, sabotage, and an assassination that finds its mark.	Each turn you are handed the counter-intelligence ledger: every HERO who spied on, sabotaged or robbed your lands this turn, what they did, whose crown they serve and the province they did it in.
The Cartographer	10	character	Hold the highest Explorer skill, plus one point per 10% of a province mapped by your own marching and exploring (every province counts separately, and the survey spilling onto neighbouring ground counts too).	Each turn your surveyors lay out the rival atlas: for every realm, how many provinces they have charted in full and what share of the world they have mapped.
The Beastlord	10	character	Muster and win with monsters — one point per Monster-category unit you recruit, and one per Monster-category unit still under your banner when you win a battle.	Each turn the beast-tongues take the rival menagerie: for every realm, how many Monster units they have under arms and the province holding their largest monster host.
The Wildwarden	10	character	Muster and win with the free beasts — one point per Creature-category unit you recruit (thunderbirds, ents, stone giants, rocs, whales, bears and the other wild Creatures), and one per Creature-category unit still under your banner when you win a battle.	Each turn the wild reports its own: for every realm, how many Creature units they field and the province holding their greatest wild host.
The Relics	1 each	realm	Each Legendary relic held at the Reckoning. 22 in the world.	—

The twenty Minor Titles

The Duelist, Marksman, Widowmaker and Relic-Hunter add to a skill in personal combat only; the Strategist in army battles only; the Swift and Sea-Wolf to movement only; the Loreseeker to the Research roll only. The character card marks where each applies.

The Reckoning

Rule	What it is
When	Turn 10 or later, the king alive, and the realm (with its direct allies) holding the bar of the world's total tax base (every province, land and sea, held or neutral). With allies, the claimant alone must hold half the bar.
The bar	Base by realm count: 2 realms 60%, 3 50%, 4 45%, 5 42%, 6 or more 40%. Less 5 points per turn after turn 15 (floor 25%). Plus one ally step per ally: 50 ÷ realms, rounded (+13 in a 4-realm game), never past 80%. Fixed when the claim is lodged.
Grace	Two full turns. Driven below the bar, the claim lapses and play continues. The erosion clock stops while a claim stands.
Scoring	Total Legacy: Titles (20 + 12 × 10 = 140 on the board) plus relics (22). Ties by tax base, then treasury. A Title nobody qualifies for stands vacant.
Standings	Hidden for turns 1–4, shown from turn 5 as percentages of the holder, never a rival's name or score. Your Titles card lists your own titles first (R-022).
Conceding	Permanent: heroes only Defend, no private dispatches. If one un-conceded realm (or one allied bloc) remains the game ends at once.
Merit	Battle merit: +1 per enemy unit destroyed by the winning commander, −1 per own unit lost by the loser; land to the Grand Marshal, sea to the Sea Lord; neutral guards count the same (no commander of theirs to punish).
Hall of Fame	Public (R-070); keeps every realm's best (R-087).

Gaps, questions and things to check

These are observations from reading the data files, the engine and the rulebook together. None of them is a ruling. Each is a question for Toby or a place where two sources disagree.

#	Observation
1	The Throne (20) is worth two Titles and is pure tax base, which also gates the Reckoning; a realm large enough to call it already leads the Throne. Is the double weight wanted?
2	The Beastlord and Wildwarden reward recruiting beasts and winning with them; Evil and Druidic realms recruit them free of Druid, so those two Titles lean toward two creeds despite R-002.
3	The Hierophant counts Bless, Holy Symbol and Resurrect but not Consecrate (R-116); the Deathpriest counts "every dark rite". The two mirror titles count differently.
4	The Minor Title perks are small and some overlap: The Beastmaster and The Naturalist both give beasts +5%; The Cutpurse and Champion both +2g. Fine, but worth knowing.
5	Imperial Title perks hand out rival intelligence every turn; R-003 confirms they name every rival. With R-046 (unmet realms are nameless) check how a Title perk names a realm you have never met.
6	The ally step makes a small ally a net loss (the rulebook says so); allied victory within a bloc goes to the highest Legacy, so an alliance at the end is a race.
